

CALIFORNIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY
PASADENA, CALIFORNIA

Horowitz

DIVISION OF BIOLOGY

May 19, 1960

Dear Josh,

Beets says he will write to Kistiakowsky about the TV show, and he will also talk to Lee Du Bridge. I think this is a good time to put pressure on Glenman from all sides. In case you need further stimulating, let me tell you that biology was represented on the program by a Harvard anthropologist--unfortunately I have forgotten his name--who undertook to tell us what an intelligent being on another planet probably looks like. I will spare you his reasoning, but the end result was a man-like creature who walked on four legs but also possessed a pair of hands. The effect was ^{like} that of a praying mantis.

Yours,

Norman